about (paste-ready)

I learned how systems work in a family Chinese restaurant and in commercial property management ... a small Indiana town where nothing fancy survived if it couldn't hold up.

At the restaurant I kept the books, handled marketing, and built the website. I also grew up bussing tables, running food, and working the kitchen. On the lease side I worked commercial docs and redlines ... precise, detail-heavy work where accuracy compounds.

The lesson stuck: build for the person depending on it.

At ServeIT Clinic (IU Luddy), I lead the website team. We ship accessible sites for Bloomington nonprofits who don't have a developer on call. WCAG from day one.

I'm a first-generation college student and a Hudson and Holland Scholar. My parents built something from nothing. That shapes how I show up.

Graduating May 2027 · Informatics @ IU Luddy. Looking for software engineering roles ... full-time after May 2027, internships sooner.
